R. KENNEDY, Business Manager.

THE LATE CHIEF JUSTICE PEARSON.

Memorial to the General Assembly of 1870-'71—His own Answer to the Imputations Against Him.

MR. EDITOR:—I feel it to be a duty which I owe to the memory of my father to hand you for publication the following sheets, written by himself in 1870, in answer to the grave imputations that were raised against him by reason of his decisions in the Habeas Corpus cases of that year.

You will observe that he expresses a desire "to perpetuate the evidence for consideration in calmer times."

I think that the present is an opportune moment to give to the public his answer to the grave charges that were made and believed by many in 1870-'71; and I allow myself to believe that this vindication of his course and motives will be read with interest by every citizen of North Carolina who regards the good name of the state as closely linked with the good name of her public servants.

I am, sir,
Your obedient servant,
RICHMOND PEARSON.

To the Honorable the General Assembly of North Carolina:

As Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, I respectfully ask that the following memorial be put upon your journal, and that such further action be had in the premises as may seem to be proper.

An imputation of corruption and venality in my official conduct as Chief Justice has been made. It is without the semblance of foundation, but the public mind is at this time excited, and it may be there is now no adequate relief for the grievance. My purpose is to perpetuate the evidence for consideration in calmer times.

In 1867, after being on the bench thirty two years, I was re-elected Chief Justice on the nomination of both parties, by an almost unanimous vote of the people. This may be assumed to be a sufficient voucher of the estimation in which my official conduct was held up to that date.

The several opinions delivered by me in the "Habeas Corpus cases" and my correspondence with the Governor are reported (64 N. C. Repts. Appendix). The opinions speak for themselves.

The imputation being in general terms, can only be met by a separate notice of the several particulars on which it is made.

1. In the fall of 1868 I published "an address" setting out my reasons for intending to vote for Gen. Grant; save this exception, if it be one, I have taken no active part in politics, since I had the honor of being Judge. I have never made a political speech, never attended a political meeting, never written a line for a newspaper. In short have done and said as little about politics as any man in the state. Yet the charge is made I am a partisan Judge.

2. Upon the refusal of Col. Kirk to obey the writs of habeas corpus in Moore and others, as he said, by the orders of Gov. Holden, the counsel for the prisoners moved for an attachment against Kirk, and for an order to the sheriff of some county to take the bodies with power out of his custody; and after much excited discussion at the bar, I addressed a communication to his Excellency, asking to be informed, if he avowed the order to Col. Kirk? That night, to prevent a repetition of excited discussion, and to confine the counsel to the points on which I desired to hear argument on the supposition from what was set out in the affidavit of service, that the Governor would avow his order to Col. Kirk, I drew up four questions, intending to announce them on the coming in of the Governor's reply—if it should be as I expected. The four points we announced on the next morning. This saved delay—I had no communication with Gov. Holden directly or indirectly in regard to the matter. So the particular of my acting in complicity with His Excellency has no no foundation in fact.

3. On the argument for the motions and the four points, there were five of counsel for the prisoners and one for the state. Being asked by the prisoner's counsel, if he would allow all to address me—I replied "if it be your wish, but it will cause delay." The argument consumed four days. Mr. Moore occupied one day, M. Bragg another. The three other counsel, (with Mr. Badger who appeared for the state and spoke about an hour) two days, and it was closed on Thursday. The opinion was written on Friday, and read in court on Saturday morning.—While the argument was going on it was published, "The Habeas Corpus cases hung fire." After the opinion was filed the greatest abuse was hurled at the Chief Justice for the delay—"such a Judge is a curse to the country."

4. In the opinion referred to two points are made. I decided the first—which is preliminary—in favor of the Governor, to-wit: that under the statute he was authorized to declare a county to be in a state of insurrection, and to arrest suspected persons. I decide the second—which is the main one—against the position taken on the part of His Excellency, to-wit: I declare the law to be, that the privelege of the writ of habeas corpus was not suspended, and that it was the duty of the Governor to allow the prisoners to be delivered up to the civil authorities for trial. This prevented a trial by a military court, and ought to have been followed by an immediate return of the bodies of the prisoners. The motion of an attachment against Col. Kirk was not allowed because he had a reasonable excuse—the order of his commander in chief. The motion for an order to the sheriff of some county to take prisoners out of the custody of Col. Kirk was not allowed and an order was made to the Marshal to bring the prisoners before me, and he was instructed to exhibit the order, together with a copy of the opinion to His Excellency.

This was done for the reason, that under the Constitution all of the physical power of the state is vested in the Executive, and the Judiciary has not the power to call upon the "posse comitatus," especially of a county declared to be in a state of insurrection, or to "accept volunteers" to come in collision with a military force, called into active service by the Executive. As against Col. Mallett or Col. Napier during the war, it was my duty to enforce the writ—had the power, because I had the Governor to fall back on. But as against the Governor, who is commander in chief of all able bodied men in the state, it was otherwise; that is the point—every man unless he shuts his eyes must see it.

I held full conference with the four associate Justices; we all concurred in the opinion that the power of the Judiciary as against the Governor was exhausted, by declaring the law and leaving the responsibility of declining to obey it upon him; the law was declared in terms as explicit as I was able to use.

But it is said, "I should not have disclosed my want of power!" That is I ought to have tried a hand at bluff, in support of the sacred writ of Habeas Corpus!!!

Such manœuvering is not tolerated by the plain dealing of the law. It was my duty to set out the matter squarely and let his Excellency see that the whole responsibility of refusing to revoke his orders must be assumed by him. This he does in his communication on the receipt of a copy of the opinion. This communication recites that his authority to declare a county to be in a state of insurrection, and to arrest suspected persons, was conceded by me, but it omits to refer to the fact that I had decided the main point against him, and thus the action of His Excellency is made to be in appearance less at variance with the law as declared by me, than it was in fact. Indeed many persons upon superficial reading took up the impression that I had to some extent concurred in the refusal to revoke his orders, and in the delay consequent there on. To correct this false impression, I take occasion in my communication, fixing the time when I would receive the returns, to say that I had not in any way concurred in the delay, and the whole responsibility rested on His Excellency; yet this false impression is persisted in to bolster up the groundless charge of complicity.

Had I, contrary to my own judgment, and that of the Associate Justices, as to the extent of my power under the Constitution, yielding to the popular clamor, usurped power which I knew did not belong to me, made the order and caused a collision, I should have felt that blood was on my hands for the want of moral courage to refuse to make an illegal order. Firmness was required to resist the clamor. It could have been yielded to without a very great exhibition of that virtue: receptions and ovations awaited those who sided with men accused of secret murder and other known felonies. I was told, "grant the order and ten thousand volunteers will rush to execute it." Thank God, I had the firmness to stop when I had gone to the extent of my power. I believe some day or other, after prejudice passes away, every one will give me credit for doing my duty without fear or favor. By its proper discharge, trial by military court was prevented. A secret organization, dangerous to the very existence of all government, and making the arm of the civil law powerless, has been exposed, and (I trust) extinguished, and all danger of civil war has been avoided.—The delay of a few weeks was a matter of which the responsibility in no wise attaches to me. This is the main particular on which the imputation is put; the others seem to be thrown in as makeweights.

5. His Excellency, in avowing his orders to Col. Kirk, takes the ground, that the public safety did not allow him at that time to allow the writs to be obeyed. Mr. Badger on the argument took the same ground; the prisoner's counsel reiterated "fiat justitia ruat coelum." In the opinion referring to this matter, I express the hope that as evil as times are it was not necessary to resort to that extreme principle, "salus populi suprema lex." It charged that the Chief Justice suggested to the Governor to occupy this position. He had already taken it and the object was to induce him to revoke his orders and permit the Marshal to execute mine.

6. When it was known that Mr. Barringer intended to resign his place on the code commission, the Associate Justices informed me it was their wish, and that of many members of the bar, that I should accept the place. After a conversation with the other commissioners I concluded to have nothing to do with it. This was paraded before the public as my motive. This reward I was to receive for complicity with the Governor in refusing call out an illegal force and for refusing to usurp power which did not belong to me under the provisions of the Constitution.

7. Writs were issued by me in Wiley and others, to which the same reply was made. I left Raleigh under the impression, but without any communication with the Governor, that he would at a future day allow the bodies to be returned and the Associate Justices were requested by me to attend when notified of the time, and aid in the examination of the question of probable cause. Accordingly upon an official notice that His Excellency was ready to allow the return to be made, I repaired to Raleigh, as did Justices Dick and Settle, and the return was made.—In this I am charged with being a "tool of the Governor!" The responsibility of the delay did not rest upon me. I received the return because it was my duty to do so. His Honor, Judge Brooks, put a rule for an attachment on Col. Kirk for not making the return to him, but after argument became satisfied that it was made properly to me, and could not agreeable to law have been made to him, and the rule was discharged. Jude Bond of the Circuit Court, U. S., takes the same view as I did, and overrules His Honor, Judge Brooks, in the matter of jurisdiction. (See opinion in the matter of Bergen.)

8. The bodies of the prisoners were returned by Col. Kirk and put into the custody of the sheriff of Wake at ten o'clock a. m. Mr. Badger had written a general return on one piece of paper. I suggested to him that separate entries should be made on every writ, forty-nine I believe. The entries were not written out, until that evening or the next day—it is charged that the Chief Justice allowed the entries to be antedated.

9. On the examination of the question of probable cause before Justices Dick, Settle and myself in Supreme Court room, the crowd was so dense that the counsel suggested an adjournment to the Senate Chamber or court house; we adjourned to meet at the court house. On Tuesday, finding the room suffocating, the window sashes were removed; on Wednesday there was a further source of annoyance, workmen were hammering upon a structure some fifty yards from the court house, and the witnesses could not be heard; the Marshal was sent to request them to stop; reply: "they were pressed for time and could not stop." The Justices, upon consultation, were of opinion sitting at Chambers, that they had no power to enforce obedience. It was then announced that the next meeting would be at the Supreme Court room to avoid the noise, and that the Marshal would only admit a limited number besides attorneys, parties and witnesses, to avoid suffocation. No objection was made. The examination of the witnesses on the part of the state was resumed in the court room. Upon this state of facts, it is published to the country that the Chief Justice was guilty of corruption in office, in this; having heard the evidence against the prisoners in a crowded room, when the prisoner's witnesses were to be heard, he adjourned to the court room and excluded all save a limited number.

10. I was compelled to go home, and on leaving the bench, announced that the Justices had concluded there was probable cause developed by the evidence to make the prisoner Tarply liable for the murder of Outlaw, on the principle stated by Mr. Boyden, "When a conspiracy is proved, each individual is liable for the acts of the others done in faith and of a common purpose."—Here it had been proved that Tarply was a member of "the order," and at a meeting of two camps had moved the "death sentence" on Caswell Holt.—This showed death as well as scourging was a purpose of the order, and would make out his guilt, although it could not be proved that he was present when Outlaw was hung. But as the witnesses had been examined on a charge of misdemeanor the prisoner had a right to have the evidence all heard de novo. If the objection was made, I would adjourn the matter to be heard at my residence, and Tarply must enter into recognizence for his appearance.

Judge Battle thereupon remarked, he had advised his client that according to that principle of law there was probable cause, and it was of no use to go to Richmond Hill to hear the evidence over again. The prisoner entered into recognizance to answer the charge of murder. On these facts it is charged the Chief Justice acted oppressively to one in his power and intended to take him away from his friends where he could not give security.

These are the ten particulars upon which the general imputation of corruption and venality in my official capacity is put

I submit they do not, taken separately or collectively, make out the semblance of a foundation to justify or excuse the imputation.

With high respect,
R. M. PEARSON,
Chief Justice Supreme Court.

We were exposed last week to a pitiless storm, that wet our feet and stockings, and indeed our person all over. In fact we took a cracking cold, which brought sore throat and severe symptoms of fever. The good wife asserted her authority, plunged our feet in hot water, wrapped us in hot blankets, and sent our faithful son for a bottle of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. It is a splendid medicine—pleasant to take, and did the job. We slept soundly through the night and awoke the next morning. We know we owe our quick recovery to the Pectoral, and shall not hesitate o recommend it to all who need such a medicine.—Tehuacana (Texas) Presbyterian.

THE WILMINGTON POST.

W. P. CANADAY,
Editor and Proprietor.

WILMINGTON, N. C.,
FRIDAY MORNING MARCH 1, 1878.

Glorious old Ben. Wade! From his suffering couch he sends to his friends the message, "It needs true men now. Say to my friends in Cincinnati that they must stand fast. The old ship is in danger. She needs brave men."—This is the old lion, who when Toombs in the Senate characterized northern Congressmen as cowards, fiercely cried out, "Do you mean me?" "No," said Toombs "I except the Senator from Ohio."

The drunken Judge who, Governor Wells says, sits on the bench "in a state of beastly intoxication," and the packed jury, made up from the scum of the New Orleans rifle clubs, have rendered a verdict of guilty against Gen. Anderson, tried before that infamous tribunal, and the corrupt Judge has sentenced him to two years in the penitentiary. Let these villains await the day of avenging justice!

There comes a voice from the tomb in vindication of Chief Justice Pearson. Among his papers was found one, now given to the public by his son, addressed "To the Honorable the General Assembly of North Carolina," and appealing to the "consideration of calmer times;" and which he asks may be entered upon its records and "that such further action may be had in the premises as may seem to be proper." The document deals, seriatim, with ten charges made against him in the "Habeas Corpus Cases" on which he rendered opinions in 1870. He defends his action and seeks reparation. We suppose that the next or some future General Assembly will take cognizance of this posthumous paper, and it may be hoped render justice to an unspotted judicial reputation.

WILL THERE BE NEW PARTIES?

"Is there to be a breaking up of the old parties over the country and the formation of new ones?," is a question which has now arrived at such magnitude that it is occupying largely the public thought. Politics is not one of the exact sciences. It is like the weather about which there is an abundance of "indications," which are never completely realized. But what is true as to the signs of the weather, is in a measure true as to the political signs. A cloud or other feature in the political sky is no less a feature to be considered than in the material sky which surrounds us.

From 1852, when the old Whig party made its last expiring effort, to 1856 when the north largely voted for Fremont, there had been new features in public affairs which tended to annihilate the old parties and create new ones. In the period which extended from 1852 to 1859 the old Whig party in the north entirely disappeared and the Democratic party was split in two, leaving a mere fragment of what it had been. In 1872 there commenced a movement, led by Horace Greeley, looking toward applying the same process to the then consolidated and powerful Republican party as had years before been applied to the Whig party. It turned out a miserable failure. The triumph of the Republicans lacked no element of compleness, and the defeat of Greeley and his adherents lacked no element of mortification and abject humiliation. In 1876 nearly all that element which supported Greeley in 1872 re-joined the Republican party and Mr. Hayes was elected. Neither in the convention, nor during the canvass, nor in the platforms was there any appearance of change of principles, or abandoning principles, or reversing policies in the Republican party. Mr. Hayes assumed the functions of office, and adopted and took steps to further a policy foreign to any avowed purpose of the Republican party before that time. And here we find ourselves to-day, with a President elected by us, adopting measures not anticipated by those who elected him, measures obnoxious to a large majority of those who voted for him.

There is neither occasion, nor necessity nor propriety in our present position, or rather in the position of our President. That policy took nearly all the old Republicans by surprise, and filled them with disappointment and mortification. Why did we resist rebel assumptions and schemes at the outset, if now we are to concede all they demanded then, or demand now? Why did we gather armaments, and armies, and enter upon gigantic campaigns, and pour out treasure and blood, if now we concede all that the south then demanded, and abandon on our part the very essence of the controversy on which account we did these things?—Why was a party indoctrinated for years in certain opinions in regard to the construction and functions of our government, but to abandon them after they had been vindicated? Why did we engage in any war at all, object to South Carolina seceding, or fire a single gun if we now abandon all the theories on which we have made the record of the last sixteen years? This is what more than a million of men are still saying to themselves.

We, therefore, do not believe that there is any sufficient basis now existing or likely to exist before 1880 for new combinations. There may be changes of men or classes of men in some states from one of the existing parties to the other on subordinate questions. Indications of such changes have already shown themselves in the vote in Congress upon the Silver Bill, when Lamar, Hill and Butler of the south, Kernan and Hewitt of New York, Eaton, of Connecticut, &c., voted against the bill, and where a very large number of western Republicans in both Houses voted for the bill without reference to party. Neither party is existing upon dead issues, as was the case in 1854 when the old Whig party died. The southern Bourbons are solid and more determined than ever, on the ante-bellum theories as to the powers and construction of the government. The President's advances broad as they have been, have not at all shaken their party organization nor diverted them from their purposes. Nor has any northern Republican state shown enough disposition to be diverted from the old paths to justify any expectation of a remarshalling of forces. Neither party is likely to abandon its old grounds, but the next appeal to the people will be likely to be on the old questions which are as distinctly known and recognized as they ever were. There are but two classes in the nation—those who saved it, and those who attempted to destroy it. No sophistry or disguise can make the one appear the other.

EARTHQUAKES, STORMS, AND SHIPWRECKS.

Advices from Panama give accounts of a very heavy tidal wave at Callao, which has risen 40 to 50 feet opposite the town, tearing away the sea walls and flooding the Lima railroad for two miles, the forts fronting the sea, and doing other damage. "The heavy surf still continues, and is causing much loss to those whose property adjoins the beach. No ships have yet been lost, but the first violent wave may cause one or the other to break adrift, and then the loss would be heavy. Three men have just been drowned through approaching too near the surf. Nothing could be done for them. There are no signs of the sea abating and many families are leaving for Lima. The ships are rolling tremendously, and the Peruvian monitor Huascar had her deck swept on three distinct occasions.

A dispatch from Iquique says: "Last night at 7:50 there was a strong earthquake here lasting 30 seconds. Although not so long in duration as that of the 9th of May, it was equally as intense. There has been no great damage done. Many people passed the night in the pampa."

Dr. Falb, of Chili, predicts that great atmosperic disturbances may be expected on the following dates during the present year: From the 15th to the 17th of February, 16th and 18th of March, 26th and 28th of August, and 24th and 26th of September, or possibly two days previous to the foregoing. This prophecy does not apply exclusively to Chili, but to the whole globe, though the nature of the disturbances will necessarily differ according to local conditions; thus, while tempests, heavy rains, snow-storms, with thunder and lightning, will occur in some places, earthquakes may be expected in others. In the mountains of Europe and the United States the Doctor confidently predicts that the first snow will fall between the 26th and 28th of August. As the foregoing predictions apply especially to the United States, it will be worth while for our "cousins" to make a note of them, so that by the time Dr. Falb reaches those latitudes they will have some idea of the value to be placed on his skill as a weather prophet, and may receive him accordingly.

A gentleman who arrived in Panama by the last steamer states that when they arrived at Callao, on the 22d of January, they found the town submerged in mud and water, and the people in a state of consternation and despair. The Custom House has been flooded, and a large amount of damage done to merchandise on deposit there, and the whole of the miserable little pueblo thoroughly drenched.

A heavy storm, mainly from the northeast, occurred on the 22d. It appeared to have two centres, one in Texas and one in the Ohio valley, and to have extended nearly over the whole country.

The houses at Long Branch were flooded and the beautiful drives cut away by the overflowing tide. The two masted schooner J. H. Clements came ashore at Long branch, and was a total loss. Crew saved by Life Saving Service. The L. D. Bradley came ashore at Ocean Beach. Crew Saved.

The most disastrous wreck was that of the three masted schooner Maggie McDonald, which stranded in the dense fog at Wreck Pond, just above Spring Lake Beach. She came on at 3 o'clock a. m., and lay embedded in the undertow 100 yards from shore. Crew saved, and cargo and vessel total loss.

A full rigged ship is ashore near Reedy's Island Light, and also the British ship St. Bernardo at same place.

NORTH CAROLINA COAST.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—The Signal Service Station at Portsmouth (N. C.) beach reported at 4:20 p. m., as follows: "The British bark Henry Pelham of Cork, Capt. Henry McKiernan, in ballast for Hampton Roads, came ashore at 4:30 this morning in a southeast storm. The crew of 18 men were all saved. The chronometers were out of order. The vessel will probably be a total loss."

The signal station at Cape Hatteras reported to-day as follows: "A two masted schooner in distress has anchored two miles, east by northeast from the station. She displays the American flag with the union jack downward. Can get no assistance from this place. Have sent messenger to Life-saving Station No. 10, which is 12 miles from here." Later he reported that "the schooner had weighed her anchor, put on additional sail, and sailed northward. The supposition is that she was waterlogged, and that the captain would try to beach her. The schooner again anchored after sailing north about half a mile." And still later: "The schooner sailed out to sea." At 7 p. m. the observer reported as follows: "Private Cooksey has just returned from up the beach, and states that the supposition is that the schooner's chains parted, and then she was carried out to sea."

NORTHERN OPINION OF THE SOUTH.

The New Hampshire Statesman the central organ of the Republicans of that state thus speaks of the present temper of the southern Bourbons:

It is not pleasant to know that, in spite of all efforts at conciliation, the ex-rebel element of the south remains implacable. Surely it cannot be said we have not gone much more than half way in our desire to show them that we of the north bear them no malice. And no one can maintain that President Hayes has not displayed a magnanimity unparalleled in his treatment of them, not only overlooking their attitude during the war, but their even more heinous conduct since in his desire to propitiate them and lead them up to an appreciation of the principles of nationality, equal rights and an indivisible Union. But all this has been labor lost so far as we can judge by present appearances. Possibly the leaven is working imperceptibly. We would fain believe so. Yet it would be unwise to presume much in this direction in view of what is now on the surface.

Letter from Mr. Sherman.

The Philadelphia Times prints the following extracts from a private letter from Secretary Sherman: "My official duty has compelled me to stand in the way of a multitude of claim agents, Custom House brokers, extreme silver and inflation advocates, and the host of men who crowd around the Treasury to obtain money improperly: I am perfectly conscious of the danger of the position, and made up my mind to do my duty regardless of results. You are mistaken in one thing, and that is that I ever wrote a letter to Anderson or ever did anything in Louisiana which could even be construed into wrong. I believe the element in Louisiana that is endeavoring to stir up these prosecutions now acknowledge that they cannot assail me except by forgery and perjury. They sought to do this through Anderson and a Mrs. Jenks, but this utterly failed, and I have now letters from each of them that no such letter was received or was ever written. * * * I do not fear the investigation of any act of mine connected with public office, and boldly defy any inquiry or investigation that may be made. I neither claim to be better than other men, nor am I, but in my public duty I have never consciously done a single act that I would not have spread before the world without apology or explanation."

Mr. Peter Cooper—His Proposed School in South Carolina.

For some time past the general press has been copying a paragraph which appeared in these columns to the effect that Hon. Peter Cooper, of New York, was arranging to establish a free school of a high grade at Limestone Springs, about a mile and a half from Gaffney's, S. C., which is on the line of the Air Line Road. We are glad to state that we have seen a private letter to a gentleman in this city which confirms the rumor. Mr. Cooper has already purchased the property and will at once establish a school of high grade there. On the premises are some very fine buildings, which were built with the idea that the spring would become a famous watering place. One building has no less than 100 rooms and is admirably suited for the headquarters of an academy. There are other buildings near by, smaller, though of considerable size. Every facility is therefore prepared in the way of room and general accommodations. The climate of the region is notoriously fine, and the water is cold, pure and delightful. No better place for the founding of such an institution could have been selected. is the purpose of the founder to establish a permanent school in this region, where it is said educational facilities are imperfect at present. Besides the regular academic course he proposes to add a normal school for the instruction of those who intend to become teachers. Subsequently a school of art and design will be added. One of the most important features will be the kindergarten department, which will be under the supervision of a skillful lady instructor. A splendid institution, which will be to the people of South Carolina a lasting blessing, and to himself a monument of honor that will not fail. It will be free to all who come. The friends of Maj. G. H. Bonner in Atlanta will be pleased to learn that Mr. Cooper has signified his intention to keep him in permanent control of the school. He is now teaching at Limestone Spring, and has a fine lot of pupils. His new position will afford a wider field, besides placing him in a position which any teacher might covet. We hope soon to see the school under full operation with hundreds of pupils to enjoy its free blessings.—Atlanta (Ga.) Constitution.

An Iowa schoolmistress has been discharged because, for the amusement of the children during recess, she stood on her head. One of the trusteess chanced to see the feat.

Vested With the Pallium.

On Sunday last, at the Cathedral in Baltimore, Archbishop Gibbons, formerly Vicar Apostolic of the State of North Carolina, was solemnly invested with the pallium, and formally installed Archbishop of the Metropolitan See of Baltimore, and Primate of America. Through the respect for the memory of the deceased pontiff, Pope Pius IX. the ceremonies were divested of all external display not demanded by the rubrics of the Church, but notwithstanding they were of a highly imposing character.

The Hierarch of the province of Baltimore, comprising the states of Maryland, Pensylvania, Delaware, Virginia, West Virginia, North and South Carolina, Georgia and Florida, were present, together with several bishops from elsewhere, and about one hundred and fifty priests and seminarians.

Bishop Lynch, of Charleston celebrated grand pontifical high mass, and officiated in the ceremonies incident to investure of the pallium.

The pallium is a circular band of the purest white wool, about four inches wide, having two pendants attached, one hanging on the breast of the wearer, the other on the back, the length of about fourteen inches. Formerly these pendants reached the feet. The pallium is worn over the shoulders when the chasuble is put on, and is ornamented with a number of small crosses—generally six—now of a black color, but formerly of a bright purple, and made of silk or other precious material, The extremities of the pendants are cased in lead covered with black silk. The pallium, as it rests on the chasuble, is kept in its place by means of three golden pins—one on the left shoulder, another at the breast, and the third at the back. Some of the ancient chasubles obviated this pinning by having small hooks sewed on to them, by which the pallium was held.

The material of which the pallium is made of lamb's wool. Two lambs are annually blessed in the Church of St. Agnes, in Rome, on the feast day of that saint. These lambs are carefully nurtured until their fleece can be utilized, and from this is made the pallium. When an archbishop is chosen the Pope sends him the pallium, which bears with it a certain canonical signification. The first mention of the pallium is dated from the middle of the fifth century, when it was worn by Saint Isadore, of that period.

Danger of Eating Diseased Beef.

Dr. C. Cameron, in his report on the flesh of animals, presented to the Lord Mayor of Dublin, says: "A malady affecting oxen, and termed 'pearl disease,' has long been known on the continent. In the last century a popular belief arose that pearl disease was identical with syphilis in man. People refused to eat the flesh of the animals affected with this complaint, and the use of it was prohibited by the authorities in Germany, Austria and other countries. In 1872, Heim, a German proved that there was no relation between pearl disease and syphilis, and two years later Graumann published a treatise in which he agreed with the opinion of Heim as to the innocuous character of the flesh of animals affected with pearl disease. The restrictions in reference to the sale of such flesh were consequently removed, in the course of a few years, by all the states of the continent.

"The dislike of the people to eat the flesh of animals affected with pearl disease continued, however, unabated, notwithstanding the medical testimony as to its innocuous character, and in this matter, as in so many others, the human instinct has been proved to be right. The admirably conducted experiments of Prof. Leisering of the Veterinary school, and Klebs have proved that pearl disease is of a tubercular nature. They have shown that animals who eat the flesh of animals affected with tuberculosis are very liable to contract that disease. Experimental results have proved that the milk of animals having pearl or other tubercular disease is capable of propagating tuberculosis.

"Tubercle, therefore, is highly infective, and as the most deadly form of phthisis in man is tuberculosis, it must sometimes happen that the milk or flesh of cows with tubercuar disease gives rise to the same disease in man. Now it is only quite recently that the poisonous nature of the flesh of tubercular oxen has been ascertained, though nearly a century ago medical men asserted that it was a wholesome food.—May not the aversion which people now have to eat the flesh of pleuropneumonic oxen be founded upon as true an instinct as that which led the Germans and Scandinavians to loathe the meat furnished by an animal suffering from the 'pearl disease?'"

One of the latest stories about Pius IX. is that one day, while walking for exercise near the Porta Pia, he came upon a pretty English girl, who was sketching, attended by a maid. The latter went to the Pope for his blessing, and carried back a message that his Holiness would gladly give his hand to be kissed to her young English mistress. "Indeed," said that lady, with a toss of her head, "I think my hand better worth kissing than his." The Pope, who had approached unseen and overheard this speech, laughed and said, to her great confusion, "that is perfectly true, but you will allow an old man to bless you, nevertheless."

A small print-cloths factory in New England saved $300 last month by paying its employes in silver instead of greenbacks. Even the genius of Bland will be bothered to to explain to the laboring classes how they were benefitted by the transaction.

Of the 5,000 envelopes asking subscriptions to the Robert E. Lee monument, sent out some time ago to the citizens of Richmond, Va., only thirty-eight have been returned, containing an aggregate of $40.33.

OLD, TRIED, AND TRUE.

People are getting acquainted—and those who are not ought to be—with the wonderful merits of that great American Remedy, the

MEXICAN Mustang Liniment,

FOR MAN AND BEAST.

This Liniment very naturally originated in America, where Nature provides in her laboratory such surprising antidotes for the maladies of her children. Its fame has been spreading for 25 years, until now it encircles the habitable globe.

The Mexican Mustang Liniment is a matchless remedy for all external ailments of man and beast.

To stock owners and farmers it is invaluable.

A single bottle often saves a human life or restores the usefulness of an excellent horse, ox, cow, or sheep.

It cures foot-rot, hoof-ail, hollow horn, grub, screw-worm, shoulder-rot, mange, the bites and stings of poisonous reptiles and insects, and every such drawback to stock breeding and bush life.

It cures every external trouble of horses, such as lameness, scratches, swinny, sprains, founder, wind-gall, ring bone, etc., etc.

The Mexican Mustang Liniment is the quickest cure in the world for accidents occurring in the family, in the absence of a physician, such as burns, scalds, sprains, cuts, etc., and for rheumatism, and stiffness engendered by exposure. Particularly valuable to Miners.

It is the cheapest remedy in the world, for it penetrates the muscle to the bone, and a single application is generally sufficient to cure.

Mexican Mustang Liniment is put up in three sizes of bottles, the larger ones being proportionately much the cheapest. Sold everywhere.

No Irishman ever made a greater bull than the English lawyer who drew up an indictment charging that the prisoner paddled a man with a certain wooden instrument called an iron pestle.

Ben. Wade's strength is failing fast. His will is unbroken and his mind clear. He is resigned, and looks to the last struggle without fear. "Say to my friends in Cincinnati," said he, "that they must stand true. The old ship is in danger, and she needs the help of brave men."

How did Eve get those bobbies? A man grabs quilts and sheets at one clutch, yanks them down and dives into bed, but a woman carefully turns down each cover, smoothes off the pillow, tucks down the foot and sides under the sheet as softly as a pawnbroker's statement.

The Rev. T. Bridges of Ushuwia, Terra del Fuego, is actively engaged in preparing a standard dictionary of the Yahghan, the language of that country, which he describes as wonderful for its complexity and regularity.—He estimates that the work will contain 15,000 words, simple and compound.

Somehow or other, there is something in the expression in the eye of a venerable William Goat, as he lurks around a livery stable waiting for an incautious customer to come in and order a rig, that makes you think of the Russian army at constantinople contemplating the movements of the British fleet.

A queer thing happened in the Virginia Senate the other day. William N. Stevens, a full-blooded negro, arose to make some remarks on the debt question. He had spoken but a few minutes when the Democrats opened their eyes in astonishment. Stevens, in an address of an hour, demonstrated that he was the best orator in the Legislature, and the members sat spell-bound through his speech, one of the ablest yet delivered on the debt question. This Virginia orator was born a slave, and is now about 30 years of age. He is a graduate of a Philadelphia college, and also of a college at Richmond, Va.

Human clothing has three raisons d'etre, which, in order of precedence, are these:

I. Health.
II. Decency.
III. Beauty.

Health demands—

1. Maintenance of proper temperature of the body by exclusion of excessive heat and cold.
2. Protection from injury by rain, snow, dust, dirt, stones to the feet, insects, &c.
3. Preservation of liberty of action to all the organs of the body and freedom from pressure.

Decency demands—.

4. Concealment of some portions of the human frame.
5. Distinction between the habiliments of men and women sufficient to avert mistake.
5. Fitness to the age and character of the wearer.
7. Concealment, when possible, of any disgusting personal defect.

Beauty demands—

8. Truthfulness. The dress must be genuine throughout, without any false pads, false hair, or false anything.
9. Graceful form of drapery.
10. Harmoniousness.
11. Such moderate consistency with prevailing modes of dress as shall produce the impression of sociability and sauvity, and avoid that of self-assertion.
12. Individuality; the dress suiting the wearer as if it were an outer body belonging to the same soul.

Ayer's

Hair Vigor,

For restoring Gray Hair to its natural Vitality and Color.

A dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy, and effectual for preserving the hair. Faded or gray hair is soon restored to its original color, with the gloss and freshness of youth. Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use. Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed. But such as remain can be saved for usefulness by this application. Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous. Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness. Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it. If wanted merely for a nothing else can be found so desirable. Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts long on the hair, giving it a rich glossy lustre and a grateful perfume.

The Rocky Mount Mail nominates Thomas A. Hendricks of Indiana, and Thos. S. Ashe of North Carolina, for President and Vice President of the United States.

There is considerable excitement about High Point in gold mines, some rich deposits having been recently discovered, which are now being profitably worked.—Greensboro Patriot.

The members of the Salisbury and Greensboro bars have signed and forwarded to their Representatives in Congress petititions remonstrating against the abolition of the Western Judical District.

They have an educated pig up west. The pig can tell the time of day to the minute, by the watch, play cards, tell you your exact age, and can add, subtract, multiply and divide figures, as accurately as the best mathematician.

Just at this time Gen. Alfred Scales, Democratic member of Congress from the Greensboro District is receiving his share of the rasping at the hands of his party papers, because he is opposed to the abolition of the Western Judicial District.—Register.

Richard Cornuth of Ashe county went out on a fox hunt with John Pope. They both lost their way and slept in the snow over night. The next day Cornuth died from exposure and was found on the mountain frozen to death.

We learn that Mr. Wm. Swindell, while clearing out a sein haul opposite Hill's Point, ten miles below town, found the hull of an old craft, supposed to be one of the vessels of the the pirate Teach; who, a century or more ago, rejoiced as the sovereign of that section.—North State Press.

A Gentle Hint

In our style of climate, with its sudden changes of temperature—rain, wind and sunshine often intermingled in a single day—it is no wonder that our children, friends and relatives are so frequently taken from us by neglected colds, half the deaths resulting directly from this cause. A bottle of Boschee's German Syrup kept about your home for immediate use will prevent serious sickness, a large doctor's bill and perhaps death, by the use of three or four doses. For curing consmption, hemorrhages, pneumonia, secvere coughs, croup or any disease of the troal or lungs, its success is simply wonderful, as your druggist will tell you German Syrup is now is now sold in every town and village on this continent. THE SUN

1878 NEW YORK. 1878

As the time approaches for the renewa of subscriptions, THE SUN would remind its friends and well wishers everywhere that it is again a candidate for their consideration and support. Upon its record for the past ten years it relies for a continuance of the hearty sympathy and generous cooperation which have hitherto been extended to it from every quarter of the Union.

The Daily Sun is a four-page sheet of 28 columns, price by mail, post-paid, 55 cents a month, or $6 50 per year.

The Sunday edition of THE SUN is an eight page sheet of 56 columns. While giving the news of the day, it also contains a large amount of literary and miscellaneous matter specially prepared for it. THE SUNDAY SUN has met with great success. Post paid, $1 20 a year.

THE WEEKLY SUN.

Who does not know THE WEEKLY SUN? It circulates throughout the United States, the Canadas, and beyond. Ninety thousand families greet its welcome pages weekly, and regard it in the light of guide, counsellor and friend. Its news, editorial, agricultural, and literary departments make it essentially a journal for the family and fireside. Terms: One Dollar a year, post paid. This price, quality considered, makes it the cheapest newspaper published. For clubs of ten, with $10 cash, we will send an extra copy free. Address

CHEAPEST AND BEST!

PETERSON'S MAGAZINE

FULL-SIZE PAPER PATTERNS

A Supplement will be given in evey number for 1878, containing a full-size paper pattern for a lady's, or child's dress. Every subscriber will receive, during the year, twelve of these patterns, so that these alone will be worth more than the subscription price.

"Peterson's Magazine" contains, every year, 1,000 pages, 14 steel plates, 12 colored Berlid patterns, 12 mammoth colored fashion plates, 24 pages of music, and 900 wood cuts. Its immense circulation enables its proprietor to spend more money on embellishments, stories, &c., &c., than any other. It gives more for the money than any in the world. Its

Thrilling Tales And Noveletts

Are the best published anywhere. All the most popular writers are employed to write originally for "Peterson." In 1878, in addition to the usual quantity of short stories, FIVE ORIGINAL COPYRIGHT NOVELETTES will be given, by Mrs. Ann S. Stephens, Frank Lee Benedict, Mrs. F. H. Burnett, and others.

Mammoth Colored Fashion Plates

Ahead of all others. These plates are engraved on steel, twice the usual size, and are unequalled for beauty. They will be superbly colored. Also, household and other receipts; in short, everything interesting to ladies.

N. B.—As the publisher now pre-pays the postage to all mail subscribers, "Peterson" is cheaper than ever; in fact is the cheapest in the world.
